July 2016

I am pleased to announce the appointment of Daniel McClintock as Head of Junior School.

Daniel is an educational leader with experience leading whole-school pedagogical and cultural change within a large and complex school environment.

He is currently the K-12 Facilitator of Innovative Teaching at Pacific Hills Christian School. His responsibility is to build a culture of innovation and pedagogical excellence across the Junior, Middle and Senior Schools, working with a particular emphasis on the effective utilisation of learning technologies.

Before he was appointed to his current role, he was the Assistant Head of Middle School (Years 5-8) at Pacific Hills. Pacific Hills Christian School is a P-12 school of approximately 1,300 students in Dural, Sydney. In his formative years (2005-2011), Daniel was a Junior School teacher and Assistant Boarding Housemaster at The King’s School, Parramatta. When Daniel was at The King’s School, the school underwent the process of gaining authorisation as an IB PYP School.

Daniel has a Bachelor of Teaching (Primary) from the University of Wollongong, a Master of Divinity, and is in his final year of a Master of Educational Leadership at Macquarie University. Daniel is married to Megan, a Dietician, and they have three young boys, the two eldest will attend our Junior School.

Daniel and his family are keen to make the move to the Hunter and to HVGS. We look forward to welcoming Daniel to Hunter Valley Grammar School.

Kind regards,

Mr Paul Teys
Principal
